

READYWRAP™

MANUFACTURED BY SOLARIS

We believe ReadyWrap will be the new standard in inelastic compression garments for the treatment of venous and lymphatic diseases. There are two versions of ReadyWrap:

ReadyWrap Professional is a revolutionary, patent-pending step forward in compression garment design that offers distinct advantages over current modes of treatment for venous disease or lymphedema. ReadyWrap is constructed with an inelastic, foam-backed fabric which, along with the 50% overlap of straps, mimics traditional bandaging. In addition, once the medical professional has set the garment to the appropriate level of compression, the patient can don and doff the garment while retaining the professionally set compression level.

ReadyWrap Quick-Fit is an economical wrapping system featuring inelastic straps with a 50% overlap, mimicking traditional, short-stretch bandaging without the hassle.

The Fundamentals of Phlebology textbook states:

"In theory, inelastic (compression) is more helpful than elastic compression in patients with serious forms of venous disease such as venous ulceration, chronic venous insufficiency, and intractable symptoms due to varicose veins"

Földi's Textbook of Lymphology states:

"The same principle that applies to compression bandages also applies to compression garments. The ideal result is simultaneous low resting pressure and high working pressure. In order to achieve this objective, the garment should be as inelastic as possible."
